

Inner peace stems from a sense of knowing who you really are:

You have asked yourself the difficult questions.

You have listened to your own answers, deep inside.

You accept them.